

New section finds community greats

IT'S always the people who make a community great and Central Queensland has its fair share of characters.

Here at the CQ News, we recognise times have been tough because of the downturn in the resource sector but there are still so many great things we should be smiling about that are happening in our communities.

And what better way of sharing what's great about where we live than through the eyes of people who are the backbone of our towns.

In this new section, Why I Love my Home Town, we will profile the characters of CQ and find out from them what it is that makes their "home town" special.

If you know someone who lives and breathes our wonderful region and who will bring a smile to the faces of our readers, give reporter Matty Holdsworth a call on 4980 0806 or email matthew.holdsworth@cqnews.com.au

We look forward to sharing your stories in coming weeks.
